BLAINE IN POLITICS.

Blaine on Politics

SEBAGO LAKE, Maine, August 24 James G. Blaine made a speech here to-day in opening the political campaign in this state for the republican party After reviewing the fact of the induction of the republican party to power the speaker touched upon the record made by congress, and declared that from the record it was shown that the policy of protection against free trade was an issue shaped and determined no longer by sectional preference but had become general and national, affording a distinct, well marked line of division between the republican and democratic parties He contended that the hostility of the democratic party to protection had entailed upon the country vast losses, and in many ways checked the progress and development of certain sections He gave statistical comparisons of the financial condition of the working classes prior to the enactment of the first protective measure as compared to-day

He spoke of the labor question, contending that the man who could by any prescription remove this discontent and at once restore harmony and happiness would be philosopher, patriot, and statesman The man who professes to do it the speaker said, would generally prove to be a compound of empiricism and ignorance "Perfect freedom to test all rights and secure the advantage of organization, to exert a strong power through combination, said the speaker are certainly among the common rights of all men under a republican government" He said he could only wish that perfect labor organization now under [illegible] wages in the United States be kept above the general standard [illegible]. He also dwelt upon the fact that colored men of the south were [illegible] artisans and if free trade prevailed their labor not only came into competition with the highly skilled and miserably paid labor of Europe but the colored laborer would remain subject to the will of white men, receiving inadequate compensation for their toil and steadily crowding down the compensation of the white laborer

He dwelt at great length on the fishery question. He said that the senate and house have formally terminated the treaty of 1871 by an overwhelming vote Secretary of State Bayard continued the treaty for six months at the request of the British minister, the latter exacting a pledge that the president would recommend the appointment of a commission to decide on the exact basis of the fishery rights of both nations. The president carried out the promise in the verbatim language of the compact. The speaker characterized the entire proceeding as most extraordinary, maintaining that the pledge being held by the British foreign office robbed the president of his liberty as executive. When it was ascertained congress would not sanction the international commission the Dominion of Canada, the speaker said with presumed approval of the imperial government, began a series of outrages upon American shipping and fishing vessels and fishing crews, seeking in every way to destroy their business and deprive them of their fishing rights This was done with deliberate intention and obvious expectation of forcing concession from his government. Blaine took up the treaty of 1818 and discussed it from the standpoint of Webster, quoting the language of that statesman: If an American fishing vessel was captured by one of her vessels of war, the crown of England was answerable, as the treaty was made with it, and it was not to be expected that the United States would submit their rights to be adjudicated in petty tribunals of the provinces or allow our vessels to be seized by constables or other petty officers and condemned by municipal courts of Quebec, Newfoundland and New Brunswick or Canada,' Blaine said it would be refreshing if Webster's words could be received from official sources to-day The speaker declared that England and the United States could never go to war except on some question that would involve the imperial integrity of one or the other but the country is weary of hearing that Canadian constables are arresting American crews and Canadian gunboats are chasing vessels on the high seas floating the American flag

Regarding the Cutting case the speaker said in contrast with the patient endurance of Canadian outrages was the unnecessary and undignified display of violence and bravado towards Mexico He declared that when the United States consented to accept arbitration as a means of adjusting difficulties with England the government was under bonds to the public opinion of the world to offer arbitration to any weaker powers as a means of settling difficulties. Otherwise we placed ourselves in the disreputable attitude of accepting arbitration with a strong power and [illegible] to force with a weak power. There was no adequate cause for the demonstration "We can't," said the speaker, "without loss of character and chivalry, begin our negotiation with threats of war"

Regarding prohibition the speaker said the republican party of Maine had been pledged to prohibition from the day of its organization, and had enacted all laws respecting its enforcement and reaffirmed its faith this year Democrats are open opponents of prohibition still certain prohibition advocates had adopted the shibboleth "The republican party must be killed" and made alliance with the democrats The speaker said against this alliance the republican party presented its record of uniform support of prohibition and protection to American labor

Street Railroad Troubles

NEW YORK, August 24 —Eleven hundred employes of the Broadway and Seventh Avenue Surface road were paid off to-day Superintendent Newell said since the men refused to accept terms he will have nothing more to do with them He has advertised for new men He expects to start out a car this afternoon Police Inspector Dilkes with a force of 70 men is guarding the stables Early this morning fifteen non-union men from the extra list of the Third Avenue surface road started for the stables of the Broadway road to apply for work They were intercepted by strikers and assaulted and driven away Master Workman Graham hastened to the stables and ordered the men to refrain from all violence He asserted that the company had violated their agreement, which was to make each driver and conductor run only five trips a day The new schedule would make them run six trips a day, or about 16 hours work A meeting of members of the local assembly of car employes will be held to-night. Employes of the Bean line left work at 4 a m They complain of discharges on frivolous pretexts, and also increasing hours of work with reduction in wages Employes of the roads known as the Forty-second street lines complain of a new time table issued to-day They claim they will have to work ten hours daily without eating or rest A strike will probably be ordered to-night

Mexican Complications

WASHINGTON, August 24 An official telegram has been received from Minister Jackson confirming press reports of Cutting's release, but giving no particulars No doubt is entertained at the department that the published statements with regard to the reasons alleged by Mexicans for their action is correct. The release will not affect Sedgwick's mission which is to learn all facts in the case The government does not at present concern itself with any question of damages due Cutting, but will use the information it may gather through Sedgwick in furtherance of its negotiations for a change of Mexican laws, in so far as they are held to give the right to try Americans for acts committed within American territory. The Aresures Mondragon murder is still the subject of correspondence, or rather of inquiry, as it appears at present the only act for which this government can demand redress is that of kidnapping Aresures, when he was domiciled upon this side of the border line. In no event can it be expected that Mondragon will be surrendered for trial to American authorities, a special treaty clause intervening to warrant refusal on Mexico's part to surrender one of her citizens upon any pretext.

One of the Shooters Dead

DENVER, August 24 A Pueblo special to the News says J Gagan, the cattleman who had a shooting affray Saturday evening with Hezekiah Enyart at Rocky Ford died last evening His shattered leg was amputated and he did not then long survive It is thought Enyart will recover It is thought Enyart will recover Both the men were game, but poor marksmen Gagan is said to have been the aggressor He was unmarried

A New Mexico Murder

DENVER, August 24 —A report reached here this evening of the brutal murder of M J O Connor at Amargo N M this morning by a man named Crowley The facts in the case as near as can be learned are as follows Fifteen months ago P J and M J O Connor purchased from E A Vorhang a coal mine near Amargo Joe Smith, ex sheriff of Conejos county, with three men named Hastings, Crowley and Happy Jack," desired to get possession of the property and made repeated attempts to jump the mine but the O Connor boys defended their property with arms. This morning, while M J O Connor and wife were standing near the entrance of the mine Crowley came up and attempted to drive O Connor away A few words passed between the men when Crowley shot and instantly killed O Connor After the shooting Crowley picked up an ax and before Mrs Connor's eyes split her dead husband's head open and then attempted to escape, but it is reported was captured in a short time and that officers are after the rest of the men interested with Crowley in attempting to jump the mine It is reported that there is talk among the settlers in the neighborhood of lynching Crowley, but the report is not confirmed

Troops for Ireland

DUBLIN, August 24 —Curragh of Kildare, the great plain owned by the British crown in the heart of Kildare county and used for military purposes is the scene of unusual activity at present. The place is being put in readiness for [illegible] five additional regiments of infantry and four additional regiments of cavalry These fresh troops are to be used in assisting in the work of eviction during the coming winter The authorities expect that the default in rents among the Irish peasantry will be unusually great this winter and that the present force in Ireland will, unless much strengthened, prove totally inadequate to the work of [illegible] the interests of landlords.

ALEXANDER'S FALL.

The Prince of Bulgaria Taken Captive to Russia

His Subjects Moving to Restore him to the Throne.

Turkey Wants to Know the Intentions of the Powers.

The Deposition of Alexander

LONDON, August 24 The prefect of Varna received, on Friday evening, a circular signed by Karaveloff, Sankoff, Stoiloff and Radishoff ordering him to inform the people that Prince Alexander had been dismissed All towns in Bulgaria and Roumelia, except Widdin, are in a state of siege It is rumored at Berlin that Alexander was compelled to abdicate by threat of death

HOW IT WAS DONE.

LONDON, August 24 – Authentic dispatches from Sofia show that the deposition of Prince Alexander of Bulgaria was accomplished during the night According to these advices one thoroughly Russianized regiment of cavalry was detained in the city after night fall when the other troops retired to their barracks This regiment, perfectly under control of the revolutionists, surrounded the palace about two hours past midnight. Alexander was in bed and the palace closed The revolutionary leaders with the assistance of the soldiers forced their way into the building, went to the prince's ante-chamber and had him aroused They bluntly made known to him the purpose of their intrusion He was stunned, having been taken completely unawares When he recovered his self-control and realized the utter helplessness of his situation he bitterly reproached his captors for their treachery What followed is still rather obscure The revolutionists declare that Alexander signed a formal abdication of the throne Others, however, assert that he firmly declined to sign the abdication, and that in consequence of his refusal he was made a prisoner and confined in a remote prison being told that he would be kept there until he complied with the demands of the revolutionists It is said the prince was removed from Sofia under strong cavalry escort before daybreak People did not become acquainted with the fact of the coup d'etat for several hours after the prince was removed from the place. Telegrams from Widdin say advices received there from Bulgaria say there is much discontent among the troops over the change in the government and that the large proportion of troops are disposed to restore Alexander

SERVIA PREPARING

PARIS, August 24 Reports are current here that Servia has begun to place her army on a war footing

ALEXANDER'S RESTORATION

VIENNA, August 24 Political Correspondence prints a despatch from Giurgevo, in Roumania, on the Danube opposite Rustchuk, which says that Bulgarian troops in Eastern Roumelia have issued pronunciamentos in favor of Prince Alexander. The dispatch further says that the Roumelian troops have proclaimed Col Mukoroff head of the provisional government which they have organized to oppose the government of Karaveloff, and adds that the inhabitants of Shumla and Tirnova have publicly declared for Alexander, and the movement for his restoration is spreading

TONE OF THE RUSSIAN PRESS

ST PETERSBURG, August 24 The Journal De St Petersburg commenting on the Bulgarian crisis says it hopes the politicians of Bulgaria and Roumelia will have the wisdom to understand that the destinies of both nations depend on the good behavior of the people

"The powers with whom rests the decision of their destinies" adds the Journal, "desire above all things that the peace and good will of these powers should be secured Politicians should abstain from agitation and should not attempt to hamper their good intention"

The Russian press do not generally believe that any of the powers will interfere with Russia's direct pacification of Bulgaria."

Novoe Vremya advocates sending a Russian dignitary to maintain order until a successor to Prince Alexander shall be chosen

THE CAPTIVE PRINCE.

BUCHAREST, August 24 A yacht supposed to have Alexander on board a prisoner passed Giurgevo without stopping It was expected to touch there. The yacht was signalled this morning near Silistria It is supposed that the revolutionists intend to land Alexander on Russian territory The Roumanian government has taken all necessary steps to protect Alexander if he is landed in Roumania. The yacht was last reported at Reni, in Bessarabia, at the junction of the Pruth and Danube. This is Russian territory

INFORMATION WANTED

LONDON, August 24 —Ferguson, under secretary for foreign affairs, replying to questions in the commons this afternoon stated that the government had no additional news from Bulgaria The government, he said, viewed events in that country with the greatest anxiety He declined to state whether Russia was implicated in the events Questions as to Russia's complicity will be renewed to-morrow

THE PORTE'S CIRCULAR

CONSTANTINOPLE, August 24 The porte has sent a circular to the powers concerning the Bulgarian crisis The circular says the deposition of Alexander has left Bulgaria in a position which interests the powers as much as it does Turkey and asks to be informed of their intentions and opinions respecting the situation as soon as possible

TURKISH DISSATISFACTION

Troops in Eastern Roumelia and at Shumla disapprove of the deposition Two thousand people who openly favor the restoration of Alexander met yesterday in front of the Russian consulate in Philippopolis, the capital of Eastern Roumelia, and made a public demonstration of their wishes The deposition has divided the population of Sofia into two hostile parties, one of which ardently supports the revolution, the other as warmly espousing the cause of the prince The partisanship on both sides has become dangerously heated already, and it is feared party conflicts of a serious nature will ensue. Railway service between Constantinople and Roumelia has been suspended, orders being sent to Adrianople suspending the issue of tickets beyond the frontier

ALEXANDER'S FRIENDS

LONDON, August 24 —Telegrams from Bucharest to-day state that a majority of the Bulgarian army as well as a majority of the Bulgarian people have already declared adherence to Alexander including soldiers in the Widdin Nicopolis and Silistria garrisons Colonel Montoderoff chief of Roumelian militia, has offered to lead the troops to meet Prince Alexander, escort him back to Sofia and replace him on the Bulgarian throne. M Stambouloff president of the Tirnova provisional government acting in concert with Colonel Montoderoff has summoned the militia of Bulgaria to service in the interest of Alexander Stambouloff declares the garrison at Sofia which seconded the revolution is ready to surrender to any government properly representing the deposed prince provided the soldiers are assured of amnesty

FIGHTING BEGUN

LONDON, August 24.—The Daily Telegraph says It is stated that a sanguinary encounter has taken place among the troops at Jassy, Roumania, resulting in killing and wounding many on both sides

The Texas Storm

GALVESTON, August 24 The city council last evening appropriated $15 000 for the benefit of storm sufferers of this city The citizens have subscribed $5 000 for the same purpose This will only afford temporary relief as over 150 families were rendered homeless and destitute by the storm

The recent storm proved very destructive to small vessels The sloop Katie J went to pieces off Pelican Island The crew were saved Lying near her, bottom up is the scow Eliza. Her crew of two men are supposed to be drowned an unknown vessel is reported bottom up at Redfish bay The schooner Livonia Perkins is now lying bottom up in the bay near Pelican Island Two of her crew were lost. The schooner Lottie May is ashore near Indianola, all hands supposed to have been lost. All small craft in the bay from the shoal to Edward point are lost The schooner Percy has gone to pieces Her captain and cook drowned, the remainder of the crew were saved It is roughly estimated that the damage done to shipping in the vicinity will approximate $100 000

The village of Quintana at the mouth of the Brazos river was entirely swept away. Indianola is a complete wreck not more than three or four houses having escaped destruction Nearly all sheep and cattle on the Island drowned None of the survivors saved anything besides what they had on hand The bodies of Mrs. Dr Hodges, her twin children and her sister, Mrs Crocker, victims of the storm at Indianola, were interred at Cuero Sunday

GALVESTON August 24 A special to the News from Victoria says Additional news of the destructive force of last Friday's storm are constantly being received Latest advices report the loss of Capt. Wm Moore, wife and five children, and his brother Dolph Moore, wife and three children the former residing at Deming's bridge and the latter at Elliott. They came down Matagorda bay Thursday evening to visit friends on Matagorda peninsula. On the same evening the party left Indianola in the sloop Dauntless for their destination Yesterday the vessel was discovered in the bay bottom side upwards.

An Indian Disaster

MANDALAY, August 24 —One of the embankments of the Irrawaddy river burst in this city yesterday The break was 200 yards in length, and so rapid was the flow of water that in a few moments the whole district was flooded from four to ten feet deep Engineers at once cut the dam south of the city to allow the water to subside, but the result of the manœuvre is as yet unknown Fifty thousand persons are to-day homeless in the city, their houses and possessions having been either destroyed or submerged A number of persons were drowned by the sudden inrush of waters, how many has not been ascertained The flooded district had within its territory many of the food supply stores, and all these were swept away The result will be an approach to famine among the homeless population The river will not fall sufficiently to permit any attempt at reconstruction of the broken embankment until November, British military operations are seriously interfered with by the overflow

MANDALAY, August 24 The damage done by the flood already amounts to five million dollars. Many dead bodies are being constantly washed ashore.

The Belfast Riots

BELFAST, August 24 —Mayor Egan of this has gone to Dublin to confer with the Irish executive in regard to the recent Belfast riots The city is quiet to-day Four more of the persons injured during the disorders last night have been removed to hospitals

The nine policemen recently arrested charged with murder for firing upon, and as alleged, killing a number of people during the late riots were brought up for examination to-day in the criminal court They all swore that they fired over the heads of the people. Judge Monroe granted the policemen releases on bail with two sureties qualifying for $750 in each case. Six of the men who took conspicuous parts in the riots were to-day committed for trial The committing magistrate announced that it was his intention to serve all rioters in the same way

LONDON August 24 The cabinet met to-day and spent two hours discussing the Irish question

Nine regiments of British troops will assist the ordinary force in Ireland in their work of eviction this winter, which it is expected will be greater than ever.

Information from Washington is to the effect that the release of Cutting does not affect the determination of the state department that Mexican laws shall not be applied to Americans for acts committed on this side of the border. After the point has been settled to the satisfaction of Secretary Bayard western editors can take a trip to Mexico with safety.

Maine elects a governor, legislature and congressmen on September 13. Blaine opened the campaign yesterday. His remarks on the fishery question could not fail to please the people of Maine, and altogether the criticism of Secretary Bayard's policy brings out the weak points of his administration. The speech, however, is mainly devoted to a discussion of protection versus free trade, as the great issue between the two great parties.

The difficulties on the street railroads of New York are not to be confined to the Broadway line, men on other roads protesting against the increase of their labor without additional pay. Much of the complaint seems to be warranted by the facts. If the horses were driven ten hours without rest or an opportunity to eat, Bergh and the society with the long name would assert their authority.

The treasury proposes to make another bond call of fifteen millions. This will, with the two already made, amount to forty millions, and is reducing the surplus much faster than the Morrison resolution, which the president refused to sign, would have done. If this policy is pursued because of the coming congressional elections, as many papers assert, it is a recognition of the fact that a majority of the people are in favor of paying the debt.

The Standard Oil company, which was started in 1869 on almost nothing, and which has accumulated a property of $100,000,000 in fifteen years, has extended its influence over every section in the country. When oil wells were drilled in Los Angeles the Standard Oil company opened war upon the local company, and it induced the railroad company to refuse rates to its little rival. Then the local company built a pipe line to the sea, and now it snaps its fingers at the big monopoly and its railroad creature.

The president wrote a letter explaining why he appointed Matthews recorder of deeds for the District of Columbia, which has recently been made public. We print it below:

WASHINGTON, August 11, 1886.

MY DEAR SIR: I cannot resist the temptation to absolutely steal time enough to acknowledge the receipt of your gratifying letter in regard to the reappointment of Mr. Matthews. I very much hope this act will not be regarded as in any way defiant to the senate or as an attempt to appear heroic. I have deeply considered the question involved in this matter, as one resting above that of parties, and as offering a test of good faith and adherance to pledges; nothing more or less. When this thing is put face to face there should be no shuffling. It is absurd to promise all and perform nothing. If the colored man is worthy of a promise, he is absolutely entitled to its fulfillment by every honorable man. I am glad you are pleased, but fail to see how I am entitled to special credit for being honest.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

This is satisfactory evidence of his good faith in fulfilling a promise, but entirely evades the important question involved, the right to continue a man in office after he has once been rejected by the senate. If this can be done the right of confirmation is a farce. But the act of the senate cannot be annulled by the president, and Matthews holds his office illegally.

Later information as to how the overthrow of Alexander of Bulgaria was accomplished is more credible than first accounts. The people generally were ignorant of the plot, which was carried out by the traitors with great secrecy and haste. Whether Russia was kept informed of the progress of events does not appear, but support and sympathy were given. This is shown by the use of the Russian regiment in breaking into the palace and the immediate transportation of the captive into Russian territory. And Russia intends to secure the fruits of the coup. The Novoe Vremya suggests that a Russian dignitary should be sent to maintain order while a successor to Prince Alexander is chosen. Prince Alexander was elected by his people and confirmed by the powers, and by the terms of the treaty of Berlin his successor must be selected in the same way. But from present indications the treaty of Berlin will not stand in the way of the plans of Russia, Germany and Austria. Turkey, in the crisis, is lamentably weak, and looks to England to take the initiative. The British government, so far as known, has done nothing except to "regard the situation with grave anxiety," for which good reasons appear. The first move against the new order of things will probably be made by the friends of Prince Alexander, who have organized a provisional government to oppose the usurpers.

PERSONAL.

Edward Everett Hale is at Chautauqua. Another literary man, General Lew Wallace, has been reading to a large audience there the "Chariot Race" chapter from his novel, "Ben Hur." It is a thrilling description and it is reported that General Wallace read it "magnificently."

A gentleman once wrote to Mr. Whittier, asking if he possessed a copy of the poem called "Maud Muller's Reply." "Dear sir," answered the poet, "I never saw or heard of 'Maud Muller's Reply.' I am glad the poor soul could speak for herself. Thine truly, John G. Whittier."

"President Scott, of the Cincinnati Southern road, was a very clever Englishman, and much wittier than Englishmen usually are," said a Kentuckian the other day to a Philadelphia Record writer. "When he first took hold of the Cincinnati Southern he was greatly annoyed by the claims for horses and cattle killed by trains of the road on their way through Kentucky. It seemed as though it were not possible for a train to run north or south through Kentucky without killing either a horse or a cow. And every animal killed, however scrawny, scrubby or miserable it may have been before the accident, always figured in the claims subsequently presented as of the best blood in Kentucky. 'Well,' said Scott finally, one day, when the 40th claim had just been presented, 'I don't know anything that improves stock in Kentucky like crossing it with a locomotive.'"

It was to Henry O'Reilly, who has just died, that a New Jersey railroad, forty years ago, refused permission to erect posts and build a line of telegraph along its road between Philadelphia and New York. The frank and absurd reason given was that "the telegraph would interfere with travel, by enabling persons to transact business by its means instead of using the railroad."

A Funnel-Shaped Cloud.

GALVESTON, August 24.—A special from San Antonio says: About 5 o'clock this evening a funnel-shaped cloud made its appearance in the northwest and in a few seconds swept diagonally across the city. The storm lasted about five minutes and was accompanied by heavy hail stones the size of marbles. Among the buildings damaged are Adams' boarding house, Raver's livery stable and the Southern hotel, which had the roof blown off.

Uncovering the Sphinx.

M. Maspero, says a Paris dispatch to the London Standard, who from family circumstances has found it necessary to relinquish the superintendence of the important archeological excavations now in progress in Egypt, has just given at the Academy of Inscriptions an interesting account of his latest discoveries. With regard to the great Sphinx, M. Maspero stated that the works of the year had lowered the surface of the ground surrounding the monument by sixteen meters. Little more had now to be done before it could be ascertained whether the Sphinx rested on a pedestal. From the appearance of the Sphinx, now that it is so far disclosed, M. Maspero is inclined to reject the opinion that it was carved on a huge rock commanding the plain. He considers that the plateau was hollowed out to an immense basin, at the centre of which the rock intended to be sculptured into the Sphinx was left intact. Among the numerous excavations made, M. Maspero mentioned an untouched sepulchre of the twentieth dynasty, even the priests' seals on the doors remaining as when placed there.

Seeking a Beautiful Melody.

Manchester Guardian.

The British museum has purchased from Mrs. Balfe a musical album left by her husband, in which are to be found the original sketches for the airs, concert pieces, finales and scenes of various kinds belonging to his different operas. The sketches that have been turned to account are crossed over with pen marks, and the book is full of ideas and suggestions of which the fertile composer had made no practical use. Balfe worked with great facility, but he took trouble with his work all the same, and in the well known "situation" in "The Bohemian Girl," where the favorite tenor song "When Other Lips" occurs, he placed, one after the other, four different airs before he could find one that completely satisfied him. These airs, with different rhythms and different tempi, are all set down in the album, including one which had been learned by the tenor, W. H. Harrison, and rehearsed with orchestra when, at the last moment constantly urged by his wife to think of something better Balfe was suddenly visited by the beautiful melody which, with her approval, he finally adopted.

He Knew the Crowd.

Peoria Transcript.

Little details of the late democratic caucuses are leaking out every day. This is one. In the First ward caucus, in order to facilitate matters, instead of balloting on some measure, a show of hands was proposed.

"All in favor of the same," said the chairman, "will hold up their hands."

"Mr. Chairman," said a delegate from the back part of the hall, "I object. I don't propose to be robbed of my watch in a democratic caucus."

And so each man wrote out his ballot with his right hand, while he kept his left in his pocket.

Some Figures Gathered from Assessor Perkins' Books.

An Increase in Valuation of Over a Quarter of a Million.

A Showing that the County may Well Feel Proud Of.

After several months of very faithful work [illegible] by Messrs [illegible] Jackson and Mr W [illegible] A [illegible] G Perkins yesterday completed the assessment roll of El Paso county for the year 1886. Although the work [illegible] completed about two weeks later [illegible] year it has been done very carefully [illegible] figures have all been verified. To the [illegible] of Mr Perkins it can be said that he performed the work without any office [illegible] and has been compelled to remain [illegible] office from early in the morning until [illegible] night in order to perform the duties [illegible] required of him. In the most of the [illegible] of the state the assessment work is [illegible] by assistants and in the most [illegible] it is not as carefully done as in [illegible] county. Mr Perkins says that he [illegible] more than usual care in the [illegible] of this year's assessment and feels [illegible] that no tax payer in the county has [illegible] overlooked. Both Messrs Jackson and [illegible] have done careful work, the former [illegible] the mountain territory and the [illegible] section of the county, while the latter traversed the Divide and eastern precincts [illegible] the city work, it has all been performed [illegible] Mr Perkins himself.

We are unable just at present to give the [illegible] as complete as might be but are enabled [illegible] valuation with those of 1885 [illegible] a decided increase of over $250 000. [illegible] the assessment been taken a month [illegible] the increase might have been at least [illegible] million over that of last year, [illegible] to the starting of work on the Colorado [illegible]. In some respects there has been a [illegible] but as a rule the figures will show [illegible] El Paso county is in an improved financial condition, probably more so than any [illegible] county in the state.

In order to enable our readers to make [illegible] comparisons for themselves, we give the [illegible] of the assessor's books [illegible] the years 1885 and 1886

[illegible] be seen by the table the valuation [illegible] in the county for 1885 was $[illegible] 745 compared with $[illegible] this year thus [illegible] an increase in valuation of over [illegible]. As to the increase in acreage we are [illegible] able to give the correct figures. In the [illegible] of improvements on public lands about [illegible] amount has been expended and [illegible] in figures being about [illegible]. Considerable land has been [illegible] during the past year and extensive improvements are contemplated. In [illegible] Springs and Manitou there has been [illegible] increase in valuation of lots, [illegible] from a decided improvement [illegible] the time of taking the assessment [illegible]. In both places there [illegible] considerable building which will [illegible] the increase in value.

[illegible] have increased both in number and [illegible]. This can be accounted for by the [illegible] county of many very valuable [illegible] the past year. According [illegible] the increase in the value of [illegible] is over $21 000 which we consider [illegible] estimate. As to the number [illegible] of mules, there is but little variation [illegible] the figures of 1885.

[illegible] the much talked of losses [illegible] last winter the assessment [illegible] show it. The valuation of [illegible] county as will be seen by comparing the tables is $402 115 for 1886 as [illegible] for 1885. This does not [illegible] of a loss taking into consideration the fact that the market is lower [illegible] is a slight decrease in [illegible] but not as much as [illegible] expected under the circumstances [illegible] rumors about the [illegible]. There has been a perceptible increase [illegible] of musical instruments of [illegible]. Clocks and watches have increased [illegible] and valuations have also [illegible] and other vehicles. There [illegible] increase in [illegible] as well as in capital [illegible] manufacturers and merchandise [illegible] showing is very creditable [illegible] the county may well feel [illegible].

[illegible] Perkins has not yet completed the [illegible] of the agricultural statistics.

[illegible] will [illegible] small fruits [illegible] of the severe winter.

House of Commons

LONDON, August 24.—Parnell was loudly cheered in the commons to-night on rising to resume the debate on the address in reply to the queen's speech. He said he believed that if the country had been given three more weeks to consider the home rule bill the tories would not be seen installed on the treasury bench. The Irish party had every reason to be satisfied with their present position. A majority of the liberal party had declared in favor of Irish autonomy. The tories had only profited from a temporary liberal hesitation. After the recent government had exhibited themselves for a year or so the spectacle for [illegible], and an attempt to govern the Irish, the liberal legislation would [illegible]. [illegible] had every reason to have patience. Theirs was a winning cause. If the government's speeches were intended to exasperate and threaten [illegible] will fail [illegible]. At the [illegible] difficulty with the [illegible] question. He regretted that the government [illegible] appreciated the gravity of the situation. The royal commission would be unable to report until the [illegible] of winter was over. If the system of [illegible] was not replaced by the system of [illegible] there would be a risk to the [illegible] tax payer. Parnell said [illegible] agreed to the adopted land purchase [illegible] believed that a settlement of the national question would come concurrently and because the conservative government [illegible] Lord Carnarvon, who was an avowed home ruler. Now these [illegible] were entirely [illegible]. Gladstone's [illegible] would have set [illegible]. Every penny of [illegible] through customs and excise duties [illegible] would have been as safe as the Bank of England. If the government thought of solving the Irish question without settling the land question it would find it had got hold of the wrong end of a very thorny stick. [Cheers.] [illegible] at the expense of British [illegible]. Parnell denounced the dishonesty of [illegible] by liberal [illegible] of English public men. He said the Irish [illegible] birthright for the [illegible]. [Parnellite cheers.] The way to develop the resources of Ireland was to allow the Irish to develop them themselves. [Cheers.] They did not want an influx of capital, for there was plenty of that in Ireland. They [illegible] Irish [illegible] [Cheers.] [illegible] the [illegible] tax payer [illegible] [Cheers.]

[illegible] Parnell's amendment to the address and proceeded. He said he [illegible] sell the government [illegible] hundreds to [illegible] by the whole [illegible] knowing that agrarian crime always followed eviction. Why did tenants submitting to [illegible] refuse to give evidence? He [illegible] taking Kerry as an example, the tenants knew that Lord Kenmore would not leave a roof over the heads of [illegible] tenants. The Irish would be [illegible] but the tenants held out by landlords [illegible] to exact [illegible] rents [illegible] exasperation. [illegible] chance for coercion and force the government to adopt coercive measures. Yes, [illegible] believe that coercion would come and very soon, too, coercion that would not [illegible] criminals but attack political opponents. If he might offer a suggestion he would urge that judicial tenancies should be fixed at three years instead of fifteen years and that there should be a revision of rents in accordance with prevailing [illegible]. The Irish [illegible] to a government not their own. [Irish cheers.] The question of home rule government will always be fixed in the hearts of the Irish people. [Prolonged cheers.]

[illegible] upon rising was loudly cheered. He began by accusing the government of having taken an unusual course in going so far outside of the speech from the throne. He did not remember an occasion in fifty years when the government thought it politic to use the address as an opportunity for explaining its policy beyond the compass of the [illegible]. He thought the government should have reserved the main lines of their measures until the issues themselves could be presented, but he was unwilling to complain of the action on the part of the government. He intimated that he would take no part in the division on Parnell's amendment because he deprecated any attempt to force a premature expression of opinion on the policy which the government foreshadowed for their future guidance. Their policy however was open to remarks. It bore upon five different points, namely: Issue of royal commissions, questions of public works, land purchase, an inquiry into land rents and subjects of legal government. He believed that the government's policy was not a sober one but was eminently complex and difficult. Gladstone described the policy of the government as an absolute inversion of the policy of government. Instead of governing Ireland by self government the present government proposed that England should govern Ireland to a greater extent than it did at the present time. The late government had proposed that the rents and revenues of Ireland be taken as security for land purchase loans. He only hoped that the critics who contended that security would be equally vigilant concerning the security now proposed. The government, he continued, evidently intended to adopt a large scheme of land purchase. Was a tenant, he asked, to be treated upon the basis of the real rentable value of property and the landlord upon the basis of judicial rent, and was the state to make up the difference? Gladstone maintained there was no power within parliament to carry such a fatal opposition into effect. [Cheers.] He had been taunted with having become a leader of Irish nationalists as if that was a charge against him, but he was delighted at having any share or part whatever in becoming a leader or follower, he did not care which, in any movement tending to make a smooth path for the people of Ireland and encourage them to a hope of realization of their just rights. [Cheers.]

The unionists have issued a whip against Mr Parnell's amendment to the address. Mr Chamberlain will move the adjournment of the debate on the address to-morrow, and on Thursday he will move a division. Mr Gladstone will start for Munich to-morrow on a three weeks' vacation. He has arranged to return, if necessary, on short notice.

The Markets

NEW YORK, August 24.—Governments dull and steady. The stock market to-day reflected the greatly improved feeling in London which still continues to be the prime moving force, and to-day purchased part of the stocks sold yesterday. There was very little news of a character to influence values, but rumors and gossip were plentiful. The market was firm at the opening, first prices showing an advance of [illegible] to [illegible] per cent. There was a slight reaction in early trading, but prices soon became firm and continued to advance slowly until just before the close, when a small reaction occurred, but the market closed firm near the best figures reached. Final prices show advances in almost every case, but for fractional amounts only in the active list, Delaware & Hudson however is up 1, St Louis and San Francisco preferred 1[illegible], Manhattan 5 per cent and San Francisco [illegible] preferred 3[illegible].

The Mail and Express says of the mining market to-day: Homestake showed higher quotations on call. Sutro Tunnel appears to have reached bottom prices. At least there are signs of advance or upward movement in the face of present legal entanglements. With the exception of complete stagnation in Leadville stocks the general market shows an improved condition with inquiries for various stocks from numerous quarters leading to a [illegible] in early activity and an advance in general markets. Sales to-day: Leadville [illegible] Mexican 65 to 70, Mono [illegible] 70, Ophir 1 1[illegible], Navajo 65, Bodie 3 00, Best & Belcher 1 [illegible], [illegible] California and Virginia 2 30 to 2 40, Sutro Tunnel 7.

Chicago's Anarchists

CHICAGO, August 24.—It seems probable that to-day's market [illegible] will have a very [illegible] in the civil courts. The physicians at the county hospital are making determined efforts to secure payment for their services in attending upon wounded police officers. The salaries of the physicians, they assert, were intended to compensate only for attendance upon paupers. The claims aggregate between $[illegible] 000 and $4000. It is now proposed to make an attack on an almost forgotten fund known as the policemen's life insurance fund, which was created in 18[illegible]. According to the ordinance by which the fund was created all rewards, fees, proceeds of gifts and entertainments and all sums realized from the sale of unclaimed goods are to revert to it. The president of the then existing board of police and the city comptroller were made trustees of the fund. The ordinance further provides that whenever an officer becomes bodily disabled in the actual performance of his duty the necessary expenses for medical attendance may become a charge on the fund. For nearly twenty years the fund has received the proceeds [illegible]. There is at present [illegible] in the fund. Upon this the dye[illegible] are anxious to realize, but the city comptroller [illegible] to pay the amounts [illegible] and the chief of police will not certify to the bills. The law department will be appealed to for an opinion.

The number of people who called to see the [illegible] [illegible] Jailer [illegible] in speaking of this [illegible] said that he thought the average number of visitors daily was little less than one hundred, fully half of whom are ladies. About one fourth of the visitors are non-residents who come to regard the condemned men as one of the sights of the city.

Parsons was asked what he thought of a dispatch from Indianapolis published to-day asserting that a day or two before the Haymarket was here a man of medium size and wearing dark clothes had told an Indianapolis saloon keeper that he had something for the capitalists and that if the saloon keeper watched the papers he would see that something would happen in Chicago about May 4th. "I should not be surprised," he replied, "if the telegram was well founded and if the man referred to was the one who threw the bomb. His description agrees with that given by the witness Burnett and also that given by Gilmer before he had a consultation with the state's attorney." Captain B[illegible] said he should certainly investigate the Indianapolis affair and find out if possible what was in it. He was inclined to think the man referred to in the dispatch was the one who threw the bomb.

Ireland's Goal

DUBLIN, August 24.—Lord Mayor Sullivan presided to-day over the fortnightly meeting of the National league. In an address he declared that Ireland was prepared to accept Gladstone's home rule bill as a settlement of the controversy with England. Of course Irishmen would not, Sullivan said, refuse to receive whatever good things the tories might offer short of Gladstone's proposed benefaction, but the tories might as well know now as later that the people of Ireland would never be contented until they had a parliament of their own.

Cutting's Talk

EL PASO, August 24.—Cutting this evening published an address to the people of the United States in which he thanked the people of El Paso, the press of the city and of Texas and particularly Consul Brigham, for the interest taken and assistance rendered him during his imprisonment, and says that the main issue, that of Mexico's right to extra territorial jurisdiction over foreigners, is not at all settled by his release. He winds up with violent abuse of Mexico and her institutions, and hopes that the United States will soon invade and conquer the whole country.

It seems to be almost a settled fact that the state military encampment this fall will be held at Denver, and it is almost useless for any other city in the state to make an effort to get it. To tell the truth most of the outside military companies would rather have it there as it will give them an opportunity to visit the metropolis of the state and have an enjoyable time

Never since the opera house first opened has there been such a large advance sale of seats as there was for Modjeska yesterday, not even excepting the sale for Barrett. At 6 o'clock last evening there were only five seats left in the lower part of the house and the balcony was fairly well filled There is no question but that Modjeska will be greeted by the largest and most critical audience that ever assembled in the opera house.

W. N Farnum, postmaster at Mountaindale, Colorado, writes that in April or May 1859 there was a flood in both Camp creek and the Monument, When the water was much higher than it was a few weeks ago At that time the water in the Monument bottom extended from bluff to bluff and on this side was up to where the old Lincoln barn now stands

WAIT FOR THE BIG SHOW!

Some men are born great others have greatness thrust upon them, but E. HELMER, the enterprising Harness and Saddlery dealer, is destined to become great by his own exertions and by his original ideas in the manufacture of STOCKMAN'S SADDLES Mr Helmer's Saddles are considered to be first class in the market, while those of other manufacturers rate last in style and behind the times Mr Helmer has by strict attention to business and the wants of his customers worked himself from a comparatively insignificant Harness shop to an establishment second to none in the line in Colorado Springs. He was compelled by pressure of business and lack of space to remove his stock to that large and commodious building No. 105 South Tejon Street, where he has better facilities for filling the large orders pouring in daily Mr Helmer uses nothing but No 1 stock, which he buys for cash, and employs none but first-class workmen Mr Helmer puts no superfluous capital in fancy glass cases of outrageous dimensions and other high colored fixtures for the purpose of ... the public He has ordered direct from the factory two car loads of Trunks and Valises the finest and most complete stock ever in Colorado Springs, and those wishing to purchase a Trunk or Valise will save money by awaiting the arrival of his goods, as he pays cash and therefore can sell cheaper than any other house in the state, as customers are not charged outrageous prices to pay for goods bought on from six months' to one year's time Mr E Helmer delivers all goods free of charge. He keeps no fancy delivery wagon, but gives his goods to the city expressmen, without extra charge to the buyer.
